

The submitted database refers to nucleotide sequences of DNA fragments of the mitochondrial gene of Cytochrome oxidase generated from fecal samples collected directly from the trail environment in a State Park in Rio de Janeiro. These sequences aim to help the identification of wild mammalian host species identified in this Conservation Unit.